During 2008, we updated the appearance of the publication adding color and more pictures. With the new look, we began a concentrated effort to switch to more environmentally friendly electronic delivery of the publication instead of the print and mail system. We quickly discovered the success of electronic delivery depends on the accuracy of our email addresses. Also, we finished improvements to our website at www.lweaonline.org, where we post the current electronic copy of The Crock, and the previous 5 years of issues starting with August 2004.
